

JGL Legacy Scholarship

History

When Jameson, Gilroy, and B & L Livestock Ltd. (JGL) was formed in 1979, Bill Jameson and Robin Gilroy believed that a strong business is built on friendly, trustworthy service and loyal, long-term relationships. For over 40 years, these values have remained at the core of what JGL is today. Over the years, JGL has expanded from a cattle-buying firm to a full-service agricultural partner providing personalized services for ranchers and growers including merchandising, crop protection, seed and nutrition, financial services, and risk management. The JGL founders have a long-standing belief that investments in young people keen on the business of agriculture have, in large part, been responsible for the growth and success of JGL.

In 2012, the JGL Legacy Scholarship was established to promote growth in rural Saskatchewan by re-investing in its greatest resource – young people. The JGL Legacy Scholarship is awarded to 17 deserving young people who reside in rural Saskatchewan and are enrolled in post-secondary education, with special consideration given to those enrolled in an Agriculture related program.

Criteria

- Must be a graduate during the current school year.
- Must be continuing post-secondary studies at a recognized institution (any program) with preference given to applicants enrolled in an Agriculture related program.
- Preference given to students residing in rural Saskatchewan.
- Academic diligence and community involvement are considerations.

Required Documentation

- Must provide proof of acceptance into a recognized post-secondary institution.
- Must submit a letter outlining your career objectives (100-250 words).
- Must submit 1 letter of recommendation (from school, business community, etc.)

Application Deadline: May 1

How to Apply:

- Submit required documentation by email to community@jgl.ca.
- We'll review all applications and reach out to the successful applicants by June 1.
- Scholarship funds are administered through the recipient's school division.